VALUATION SERVICES

What is the true value of your business right now - today? Knowing the answer can be the difference between gain and loss or success and failure.

How long has it been since you fully examined the real value of your business? Many have never done it at all.

Critical, life-changing decisions for you, and perhaps your family, rest on an accurate valuation of your business. An objective valuation allows you to make decisions with confidence, whether you are negotiating a merger, considering new shareholders or attempting to resolve disputes associated with a liability, shareholder equity, estate planning or even marital dissolution.

Business valuation is not an exact science. Price CPAs begins with an analysis of your business to determine not just how it operates but what constitutes its real value. Working closely with you to analyze your operations and historical financial data, we gain the in-depth knowledge of your business which enables us to provide a well-reasoned, fully documented and defensible valuation.

The experience and training of the Price CPAs leadership team provides the judgment and perspective needed to assure you that the information you have about the value of your business is both accurate and trustworthy.
